The PIPE Project

The project “Programme of Inclusion for Migrant People at risk of social exclusion” [PIPE] has been funded by the European Commission in the framework of the Erasmus+ programme.

It aims to design, implement, and promote a transnational cooperation network focused on enhancing skills and competences for migrant populations. By providing targeted education and training opportunities, PIPE seeks to empower immigrants, refugees, and asylum seekers, fostering their integration into host countries while addressing societal, technological, and economic challenges. Through this initiative, PIPE endeavors to build bridges between diverse communities, promoting mutual understanding, inclusion, and social cohesion.

Toolbox for professionals

The PIPE Project's Toolbox for Professionals is an accessible resource depository designed to support those working with migrants. It offers practical tools and insights to enhance the integration and well-being of migrants, refugees, and asylum seekers. By focusing on effective communication and inclusion strategies, the Toolbox aims to empower professionals and volunteers to facilitate smoother transitions for migrants into host societies.

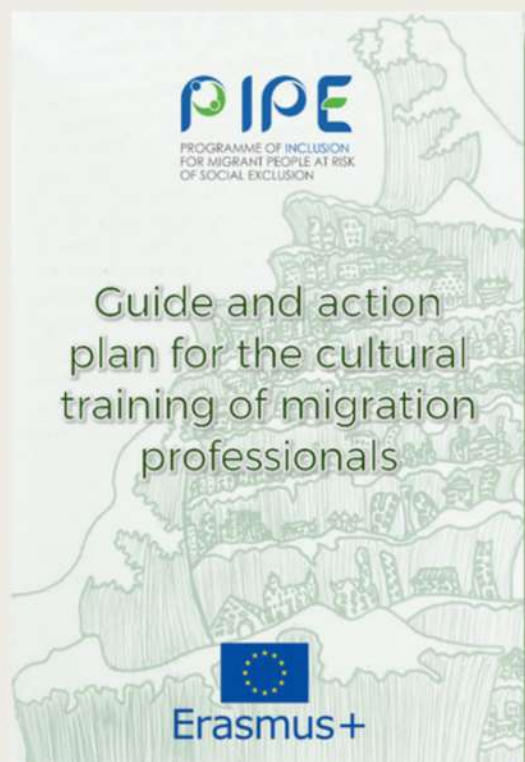

Thanks to the Toolbox, it is possible to easily access the main results of the projects for professionals. Hereafter the first two main deliverable available in the Toolbox are introduced.

Guide and action plan for cultural training for professionals

Guide and action plan for cultural training for professionals contains a brief theoretical framework on cultural competence structured in levels so that professionals, volunteers and associations working with migrants can adapt their training plans based on their real needs, highlighting key elements to be taken into account in order to acquire a cultural competence that will help us to interact interculturally with migrants, fostering a dialogue of knowledge during the integration processes that favours their active incorporation into the host community.

Guide for Teaching the National Language for Migrants

The Guide for teaching national language for migrants is the first outcome of the PIPE Project.

The document is a multi-level resource for professionals and volunteers working for and with migrants. In its eight chapters you will find the reflections of professionals from Spain, Denmark, Greece, Italy and Germany on the why and how to teach the national language, introducing the analysis of teaching materials, the use of technologies, the transversal importance of environmental and gender contents and underlining the need to approach this hosting process from an intercultural dialogue of knowledge for the empowerment of migrants as guests and protagonists in their process of learning the host language and culture.

It is a Guide that contains links to all kinds of resources related to language learning, languages and toolkit on education and migration, a guide based on the pedagogy of hospitality that offers a dialogical view of what should be an encounter and a dialogue between cultures to encourage professionals and volunteers to reflect on how we should approach this first law of coexistence, which is to welcome those who come as an opportunity to grow and learn as a community.

EU Immigration Portal

The EU Immigration Portal is an official website of the European Union that provides comprehensive information on immigration policies, procedures, and rights for non-EU nationals. It covers key topics such as visa requirements, residence permits, work and study opportunities, and asylum procedures. The portal also includes specific guidance for different categories of migrants, such as skilled workers, researchers, students, and family reunification cases. Additionally, it offers links to national immigration websites of EU member states, helping users access country-specific regulations and navigate the immigration process more efficiently. Maintained by the European Commission, the portal ensures accurate and legally sound information for individuals navigating the EU immigration system.
